

LONE BANDIT KILLS THREE IN HOLD-UP THIRD PARTY DEAD—LABOR DROPS SUPPORT

DECISION TO RETURN TO NEUTRAL STATUS PROVES FATAL BLOW

Taken as Last Step In Return to Political Normalcy

WASHINGTON, August 3.—The last nail was driven into the third party coffin today by the formal decision of the American Federation of Labor to cut loose from the remnants of the LaFollette organization and return to its traditional position of non-partisanship in congressional and national elections.

The federation was the backbone of the LaFollette movement in 1924 and through its various units furnished most of the money to carry on that ambitious campaign. Its decision now to renounce its allegiance to a single political party and resume "boring from within" both old parties marks the last step in the nation's return to political normalcy following the election.

It was expected today that it will be a long time before the federation again attempts mass action at the polls. The results of the LaFollette candidacy were distinctly disappointing to the federation chiefs. Convinced anew that the labor vote cannot be delivered, they frankly summed up their attitude as follows:

The executive council believes the launching of third party movements has been proved wasted effort and injurious to the desire to elect candidates with favorable records. The 1922 and 1924 campaigns definitely determined this fact. Experience, therefore, has taught labor that to be successful politically it must continue in the future, as in the past, to follow a non-partisan policy.

The federations decision has been anticipated for sometime and has been the subject of keen controversy in labor circles. Not all of the chiefs favored such a move but their opposition dwindled rapidly after the death of Senator LaFollette.

Labor will return to its old time method of political dealing. It will issue from time to time "white lists" of candidates for senate and house whose records are favorable to organized labor, work for the election of these regardless of whether they are Democrats, or Republicans and similarly attempt to defeat those on its "black list" whose records are not to labor's liking.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT PLANS OFFENSIVE TO BRING ABOUT PEACE

PARIS, AUG. 3.—The French government has determined upon peace in Morocco through a big and immediate offensive. This decision has been confirmed as a result of conferences between Marshal Petain, just returned from a tour of the front and Premier Painleve, who is administering the war office.

Necessity for an immediate drive against the Rif is emphasized on all sides. Marshal Petain has been able to report complete unity among the French military leaders and entire accord between himself and General Primo De River, Spanish chief.

In planning the huge offensive however, the military leaders have been forced to take into consideration the exigencies of the Moroccan weather. Although the heat is blistering at this time, it has been decided that the offensive must be started without delay, as about the middle of October the torrential north African rains will begin, making use of the roads all but impossible and thereby paralyzing communications.

Of the two evils, Marshal Petain has chosen a campaign in midsummer heat as the lesser. Meanwhile there has been a lull in activities on both sides in the Rif. As all hope of peace by negotiation with Abd-El-Krim has been abandoned this lull can be taken only as the calm before the storm.

The girl was spirited from her home in an auto but when the car stopped managed to escape.

BRYAN STILL FAVORED TWO MONEY STANDARDS AT TIME OF HIS DEATH

Letter Made Public Reveals Commoner Believed In Theory of Gold and Silver Standards To Last—
Time Not Opportune He Held

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—William Jennings Bryan at the time of his death, still held to the basic soundness of his famous theory that there should be two standards of money—silver and gold.

He did not, however, regard the time as "opportune to revive the money issue."

"This country was enjoying unparalleled prosperity," Bryan said. Money was no longer an issue, as it was in 1896 when "the boy orator of the Platte," in the historic "Cross of Gold" speech, fired the imagination of the people.

The New York Evening Journal today made public Bryan's latest views on the free silver issue which brought him into the limelight as a national figure in 1896.

"I don't regard the time opportune for the discussion of the money issue," Bryan wrote to the Journal's financial editor, Merryle Stanley Ruker, on June 17, 1925. "It takes a serious business depression to arouse a discussion of the money question. The discussion in 1896 came at the end of a long period of decline of prices during which three international conferences were held to restore bi-metalism."

"The increased production of gold demonstrated the truth of the quantitative theory of money but as the increase came from an unexpected source, many failed to realize that the contentions of the bi-metalist had been sustained by experience."

"An attempt to revive the money question at this time, would, I think, be useless and would tend to divert attention from other questions about which the people are thinking."

By bi-metalism, Bryan meant the view that holds that there should be a bi-metallic basis for money such as gold and silver, instead of one base, such as merely gold. Bryan during the famous campaign of 1896, urged that silver be valued at one sixteenth of an equal quantity of gold.

"Quantitative theory of money," holds that the purchasing power of money is determined by the amount outstanding in relation to all goods available for sale. In other words, the more money there is the less it is worth.

The letter to Ruker was personal. It was made public because of its historical significance.

ATTEMPT TO LINK PAIR OF DEATHS

POMEROY, O., Aug. 3.—An attempt to link the death of Clement Caster, 59, wealthy farmer of this district, with that of Charles Nichols, which followed a neighborhood feud a few months ago was being made here today as Coroner Benjamin Ewing prepared to send Caster's vital organs to Columbus for an analysis.

Caster's body was found in a ravine near his home late yesterday and Ewing expressed a belief today that he was the victim of some powerful poison.

Valuables in Caster's clothing were not molested leading police to the theory that the motive for his murder was revenge.

Caster's body was found by the wife of Frank Vale but police so far have been unable to learn who advised the coroner of it, the informant refusing to give his name when he telephoned the information.

PANIC FOLLOWS BLAST OF TIME BOMB IN BROOKLYN

More Than Score Treated for Shock and Hysteria—None Injured By Blast—Police Believe Labor Trouble Cause

NEW YORK, August 3.—A time bomb exploded early today in the hallway of a four story dwelling in Brooklyn, throwing the neighborhood into a panic.

Although nobody was seriously injured more than a score were treated afterwards for shock and hysteria.

Police were trying to trace the explosion to labor troubles.

The bomb blew a hole eight feet square in the hallway, trapping twenty-three tenants until police arrived and led them to safety. The vestibule of the house collapsed. Every window in the house was shattered. Several persons were thrown from their beds.

The bomb exploded prematurely. This fact saved a number of lives, according to experts of the bomb squad.

The house is owned by Maria Di Gracia, whose father, Anthony, a wealthy clothing manufacturer, has been having labor troubles recently in his shops.

Seven persons were injured, two seriously and thirty others were dazedly rescued when fire damaged two brick tenement houses in another section of Brooklyn early today.

Twenty-four families were forced to flee their homes in night attire.

SANITY INQUEST IS STARTED IN EFFORT TO SAVE SCOTT'S LIFE

Two Corps of Alienists Ready To Testify at New Hearing

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The last move to save Russell Scott from the gallows for the murder of Joseph Maurer opened today before Judge David. There two corps of alienists appeared to testify as to the sanity of the former millionaire whose hanging has been delayed three times.

On one side are eight alienists summoned by the defense to testify that Scott has become insane since he was sentenced to hang. On the other side are five state alienists ready to declare that Scott is sane and that he was sane when he murdered Joseph Maurer, drug clerk. There were other witnesses summoned—particularly by the defense—to tell that they believe Scott insane. Several of them are from Detroit, where Scott's case has aroused much sympathy.

Taking of testimony is expected to begin tomorrow. Two days are expected to be taken in examining the witnesses.

If Scott is found insane, it will be up to Judge David to send him to the state insane asylum for criminals at Joliet. The jury made Scott sane to do except to set a date for his hanging. This will be a final blow to hopes of relatives and friends to save Scott for Governor Small after granting two reprieves finally refused pointblank to further interfere with the findings of the jury and court which had sentenced Scott to death, and there is no further recourse except by appeal to President Coolidge.

HATRED FOLLOWS AS FOREIGNERS EXILED

BERLIN, AUG. 3.—Germans exiled from Poland and Poles being driven out of Germany in retaliation continue to cross the German-Polish frontiers as hatred and ill-will between the two nations increase.

Throughout last night Germans by the hundreds were sent across the frontier but the total number arrived to date is not known. German authorities estimate some 9,000 already have been sent back, but they explain they are wholly in the dark as the Polish government has refused to furnish lists.

On this account it has been difficult to make adequate preparation for the reception of the returning Germans at home and they have protested to President Hindenburg against the treatment accorded them and have demanded reprisals on the Poles being exiled out of Germany under the same provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

ALLEGED MONOPOLY IN RADIO INDUSTRY OBJECT OF PROBING

Declare Corporations Are Evading Terms Of Sherman Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—With Secretary of Commerce Hoover fighting to get the radio broadcasting traffic out of a tangle resulting from an overabundance of stations, the department of justice is drawing to a close its widespread investigations of alleged monopoly in the radio equipment industry.

The probe involves the question of the right of corporations to effect trade controlling combinations through the use of patent rights, officials disclosed today.

Department agents said that by means of "cross licenses under asserted patent rights," many corporations have found a means of evading the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law. For this reason the investigation in effect, has extended far beyond the radio business, into virtually all industrial methods.

Methods of the government in granting patents also becomes involved the department of justice in a recent antitrust action having declared, "It is a matter of common knowledge that great numbers of patents are issued by the patent office which are wholly void because, lacking in novelty, or which considered in the light of prior art, are much narrower in scope than appears from the claims."

The government, the department said, is not precluded from contesting the validity or seeking to narrow the scope of a patent merely because it was issued by the patent office.

Patent rights are now being employed in a large number of industries to control the business, according to department agents. They insist that the right of a patentee to make conditions contrary to the Sherman act as a part of a patent license agreement, has been decided in the negative by federal courts.

The department of justice launched its radio probe on receipt of a report from the federal trade commission that about 2,000 radio patents are controlled by the Radio Corporation of America and its affiliated organizations. The validity of many of these patents may be contested by the government.

No conclusion as to whether the facts disclosed constituted a violation of the anti-trust laws, was made by the commission.

The report included information as to the interchange of patent licenses and agreements between the Radio Corporation of America and General Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Western Electric Company, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Wireless Specialty Apparatus Company and the United Fruit Company.

MOTORISTS FATALLY SHOT WHEN GUN USER IS REFUSED MONEY

Slayer Escapes On Motorcycle, After Triple Killing

DENVER, COLO., August 3.—Police were scouring the city and mountains near Denver for a lone bandit who shot and killed three persons and wounded another early today in a sensational holdup.

Two men and two women were driving slowly near Fort Logan when the bandit jumped on the running board of their car and at the point of a gun demanded they drive down a lonely lane. Jerking open the door of the car, the bandit demanded their cash.

Upon being told they had none, the man with vile oaths and curses drew another revolver from his pocket and began firing. Miss Marie McCormack, 17, fell instantly killed. Mrs. Julia Stearns, sister of Miss McCormack fell mortally wounded and Fred Funk, a youth of 19, died on the way to the hospital.

Carl Perry, another member of the party, with a bullet hole in his arm, and bleeding profusely, staggered to a nearby farmhouse and summoned aid. The desperado, driving a motorcycle without lights and careening wildly over the rough roads, twisted around corners and curves to dodge the lights of a police car and escaped.

PROSPECTS OF DEBT SETTLEMENT RECEDE MORE OVER RUPTION

LONDON, AUG. 3.—Prospects for a settlement of the French debt to Great Britain receded still further into the future today on unofficial reports following the disruption of the negotiations last week.

Finance Minister Caillaux will not come to London before September or October, it was reported, and although there was no confirmation from official sources, there was a growing belief that the settlement would be still further delayed.

On the departure of the French delegates from London, some circles declared the French had offered nothing that was at all satisfactory to Great Britain. It was generally believed in interested circles here that Foreign Minister Chamberlain was willing to give France better terms than Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the exchange, who was not inclined to make any concessions at all.

The fugitives were surprised by police of Willoughby, where they were said to have been receiving a cargo of liquor from a rum boat.

The car rolled over three times, landing in a ditch. Although internally hurt, Brooks was expected to recover.

RESERVES UPSET BY WAYNESVILLE WHEN VETERAN HURLER SUBDUES LOCALS 10 TO 3

BY L. J. WONES.

The Xenia Reserves winning streak was stopped Sunday afternoon at Washington Park when they clashed with Waynesville the latter team beating the locals by a 10 to 3 score, before a fair sized crowd.

The locals were clearly outplayed and outbatted by the invaders and five of their fourteen hits were nothing more than pop ups that should have been caught in the hip pocket. The Reserves also made several errors which let the winners score five unearned runs.

Rube Adams opposed Glass, Reserve twirler, on the mound and he pitched nice ball throughout and held the locals to nine scattered hits. He was scored on three times and was threatened that many more but stellar work by his mates at critical times pulled him through. The old Babe, who has been pitching for some fifteen or twenty seasons, displayed a smoke ball and a hook that was good.

Glass, who until Sunday had won two straight games, was charged with the defeat. He hurled a good game of ball and issued but one walk and whiffed four. His support was ragged while the inability of his mates to hit in the pinches was another factor that caused their downfall.

The Burton brothers starred for the winners. Ed and Tom getting three hits apiece out of five trips up while the other brother got a homer with two on in the eighth.

J. Fuller, Cyphers and Early led the local attack, getting two hits apiece. Finlay also got a hit that scored a run. Paul Fuller, J. Fuller and Early played well on the defensive end.

The visitors scored in the first round when Satterwaite got to second on Milburn's error. E. Burton then singled scoring the runner. Next two men were retired in order. The locals came back in their half of the first and knotted the score. With two gone Cyphers was safe at first when Satterwaite muffed Gons' throw. Early singled to left and Cyphers scored. P. Fuller fanned for the third out.

Both teams went out in order in

HOOVEN AND ALLISON NINE INCREASES ITS LEAD OVER KELLYS

The Hooven and Allison team practically clinched first position in the Industrial League by again defeating the second place R. A. Kelly nine by a score of 9 to 4 Saturday afternoon at Washington Park. The pacemakers now hold a lead of two and one-half games.

The winners overcame a three run lead by rallies in the last four innings to win.

Cox outpitched Bennington, letting the Kellys down with six hits. The H. and A. nine went on a hitting spree and pounded out fifteen safeties including three doubles and a triple. The winners hit safely at least once in each of the seven innings.

The Kellys got away to a two run lead in the first and increased their advantage to three by counting another in the third before the league leaders were able to shove a run across the leather.

The H. and A. bunch kept plugging and scored two in the fourth, one in the fifth and stored the game safely away in the refrigerator by a rally that produced five runs in the sixth.

Foley and A. Milburn hit best for the ropemakers, each obtaining three hits. Cox weighed in with a double and triple. E. Milburn, Kelly catcher, was the only player able to solve the offerings of Cox. He obtained a triple, double and single.

BELLBROOK BEATS WESTWOOD DAIRY

Herman had the better of R. Didier in a pitching duel, and Bellbrook defeated the Dayton Westwood Dairies 3 to 2 in a twelve-inning game at Bellbrook Sunday afternoon.

The Dairies took the lead in the fourth when two hits and an error produced two runs. Bellbrook sewed up the game in the sixth by scoring two runs on two misplays and a timely hit. A hit by Crow with none gone and two outs shoved shoved the batter around to third from where he scored with the winning run in the twelfth, on a hit by Siden.

WINNING STREAK OF MERCHANTS BROKEN

The winning streak of the Xenia Merchants, which had reached thirteen straight games, was rudely broken by the Dayton Eastwood Merchants and the locals dropped their first game of the season 7 to 4 Sunday afternoon at Dickinson Park.

Frank Hatfield held the local slugers in complete submission most of the game allowing but five hits and was rewarded by seeing his teammate slug out seven tallies. Hatfield fanned nine.

F. Ginn was the chief batting star of the game obtaining three safeties including a triple.

The game was a heart-breaker for the Merchants to lose after they had maintained an unbroken record of victories in every game played this season. The loss Sunday was all the harder to swallow when it is considered the Merchants defeated the Eastwood team earlier in the season.

the second but the locals forged into the lead in their half of the third when with one out J. Fuller beat out a bunt down the third base line and stole second a few moments later. Cain filed out but Cyphers lined over short, scoring J. Fuller. Early rolled to short for the third out.

The invaders could do nothing in the fourth but in the fifth they scored three runs on singles by T. Burton, Frost and Osburn and a double by Adams mixed with a few boots by the locals. In the sixth the Reserves scored their last tally when Early led off with a double to left and scored on a single to right by Finlay.

Waynesville got a bit uneasy about the closeness of the score and a passed ball by Friend and a muffed throw by him, a walk and two hits let them score a pair of tallies which was enough to win.

Rube Merchant, local man, umpired the game from behind the plate and got by in fine style. Neither side protested or argued about his decisions at the plate or on balls or strikes. Rube's inflated chest protector made a big hit with the fans and also with the ball which bounced off it several times.

UMPIRE UPHELD IN DECISION OF SCRIBE IN PROTEST OF GAME

In an opinion delivered Saturday by Jack Ryder, Cincinnati sport scribe, the Pennsylvania Railroad's protest of an Industrial League game last Wednesday with the league-leading Hooven and Allison nine, was disallowed and the topnotchers awarded the game. The final score of the game was 4 to 3 favoring the H. and A. team.

The situation under dispute, laid before Ryder, was as follows. There was one out and a Pennsy runner on second, in the last half of the final inning. The base runner started for third and the catcher threw the ball to the third baseman. The base umpire called the runner out before a play could be made on him, claiming that he ran out of the base-line in attempting to avoid the third baseman in possession of the ball.

The Pennsy nine claimed there was no base line in lodging formal protest of the game.

In the decision of the Cincinnati sport writer, he said "This is purely up to the judgment of the umpire. The runner would be out if he ran out of the base line to avoid being touched with the ball in the hands of the fielder. If the umpire said he did so, that settles it, and the runner is out."

Bert Bowermeister of Bowersville, who umpired the game, upholds Jack Ryder's opinion by referring to rule 56, section 7, which sets forth: "If, in running from first to second base, from second to third base, or from third to home base, he runs more than three feet from a direct line between a base and the next one in regular or reverse order to avoid being touched by a ball in the hands of the fielder, then the base runner is out."

TORNADO STRICKEN ILLINOIS REBUILDS CITIES UPON RUINS

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 3.—On the afternoon of March 18, 1925, Southern Illinois was visited by a calamity which will go down in history as one of the greatest disasters on record. Hundreds were killed in a tornado, the equal of which has never been witnessed on this continent. Property was destroyed and the country laid waste. The storm took frightful toll.

To a people less hardy than the stock that settled this section the stupendous task of reconstruction would have been appalling. A weaker breed would have bowed before the seemingly insurmountable obstacles. Not so your cousin in Egypt, Illinois. With the financial aid of his countrymen he began the task.

Four months have passed since the stricken residents of this section of the State of Illinois known as Egypt brushed aside tears of grief and, rolling up their shirtsleeves, began the work of reconstruction. It is an interesting fact to note today that, after four months of heart-breaking toil, the work is still being carried on, and the countryside is rising slowly but surely to its former economic status.

The thud of pounding hammers is accompanied by the clink of the brick mason's trowel. At De Soto, Royaltown, Vergennes, Goriaham and in all towns and villages throughout the section the scene is repeated.

Telling The World

As the tourist drives into the town of De Soto he is greeted by a sign that reads:

"De Soto will re-build every house and every store destroyed by the tornado."

That implies a truly remarkable spirit when one reflects that here 158 lives were snuffed out by the fury of the elements, while the property loss entailed was stupendous. At Murphysboro the same brave attitude toward a stern fate is evidenced. The Murphysboro slogan is: "Fifty thousand population by 1930."

One thousand two hundred and four homes have been repaired and two hundred and seventy-six new ones constructed. Three hundred more homes are under construction.

Six million dollars is being spent on this town. The Red Cross contributed $1,500,000, fire and tornado insurance accounts for $2,300,000, while the Mobile and Ohio Railroad is spending $1,500,000. The rest of the sum is being spent in smaller amounts by various industrial establishments. Work will start shortly on three new school buildings to cost a half million dollars.

This is truly remarkable when one considers that these streets, along whose sides these new homes are taking shape, resounded but a few short weeks ago to the rumble of the hearse and the ambulance.

Egypt, in the State of Illinois unlike the Phoenix which arose from ashes in miraculous fashion, is building itself back to a normal state by the brain and brawn of a race but a few generations removed from the pioneer stock that heaved this modern Egypt out of the wilderness.

The words of Charles L. Rpliter Murphysboro banker are prophetic when he says:

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Murphysboro, as a result of the storm, will be a bigger and better community."

FEWER ROADS

Columbus, Aug. 3.—Volume of state highway construction for the next year will be smaller than in 1924 unless the counties increase their rate of contribution, according to estimates made public today by the Ohio Good Roads Federation. This is due to a reduction in funds appropriated for the purpose by the general assembly from $4,600,000 to $3,500,000 annually.

England probing high meat prices finds big profits

LONDON, August 3.—That retail English butchers are making almost twice as much profit now as they were in 1913 and could reduce prices by as much as two cents a pound on half the meat they sell, was learned by the Royal Commission on Food prices made after several months' investigation under the chairmanship of Sir Auckland Geddes, former British Ambassador at Washington.

The commission urged the formation of a Food Council of twelve members with a salaried chairman, on which the practical housewife would be represented. The council would act as a "watchdog on prices" and deal with monopolies and trusts.

Larger profits are made on imported meats than on English meat, the commission found, while imported meat is frequently sold as home-killed meat.

"All retail butchers should be registered.

"Cold storage proprietors should furnish statistics of their stocks.

"The Food Council should closely watch the Argentine meat trade, since it may become necessary for the Government to intervene either by acquiring a controlling interest in British companies operating in Argentina or in some other way if at any time the supply of chilled and frozen meat to this country should come to be dominated by adverse trading combinations."

Housewives received the commission's report a document of 200 pages, with scorn. They had been led to believe that the commission would alleviate high prices immediately and found instead that they were only recommending the setting up of another committee.

STEWART HARVEY

If Stewart Harvey, (above) Yale sophomore, delivered the ice to the front door of homes in the fashionable Lake Forest district of Chicago it would be all right because he is the son of Byron S. Harvey, director of the Santa Fe Railroad. However, Harvey carries the ice to rear doors as a training stunt for a try at the Yale Varsity next year.

YAW FAREWELL TO YOUNG MISSIONARY

Miss Agnes Ballantyne, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Ballantyne, North Detroit Street, who will sail September 6 for India to enter the foreign mission field, was honored by the congregation of the Second United Presbyterian Church at a delightfully arranged farewell reception planned by members of the Women's Aid at the church Friday evening.

The program which preceded the reception was held in the church auditorium, with Mrs. F. H. Routzong, president of the Women's Aid, presiding. A delightful feature was the farewell messages given to Miss Ballantyne by the various organization heads in the church, which were later presented to her in written form in a "memory box." Included in the "memory box" were messages from Xenia Theological Seminary at St. Louis and from the Women's Board of the United Presbyterian Church, and from Mr. Frederick McMillen of Des Moines, Iowa, former Greene County and prominent layman of the United Presbyterian Church who is actively interested in missions.

Miss Ballantyne was seated by the side of Mrs. Routzong, and at the close of the presentation of the messages, children of the congregation, their arms laden with flowers, filed into the church and as they passed Miss Ballantyne, filled her lap with their blossoms.

Closing the program the Rev. Charles P. Proudfit, pastor of the church, addressed himself to Miss Ballantyne in the name of the congregation, and after tendering to her the good wishes of the congregation for her success in her new field of labor, and giving her the farewell of the church as a whole, he presented to her a check for a substantial sum of money. This, he explained, was the gift to her from the people of the Second Church to be hers personally.

Interspersing the program were hymns sung by the choir and congregation.

Following the program, an informal reception took place in the Sunday School room. Young people of the church assisted in the entertaining.

The church auditorium and Sunday School room were decorated with masses of summer flowers.

Following the reception Miss Ballantyne boarded a train for New Wilmington, Pa., where she will be in attendance at the missionary conference.

Miss Ballantyne will sail from New York on the steamer City of Harvard September 6. For the first year of her mission work she will be stationed at Sialkot, India, studying the language of the natives. She does not know what branch of work she will be assigned to after completing her study of the native tongue. Miss Ballantyne's sister, Mrs. Dale White (Janet Ballantyne) is stationed at Chichawati, India, about 200 miles from Sialkot, and the sisters are planning a happy reunion when Miss Ballantyne's journey ends.

A feature of the farewell given Miss Ballantyne by members of her church, which was recalled with interest, was the fact that thirty years ago her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Ballantyne, the Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Gordon, D. D. and the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. McConnell, were honor guests at a similar affair at the old Second United Presbyterian Church, when they, as young married couples, were preparing to go to the mission field in India. A number of persons who attended Friday night's affair were guests at the other reception three decades ago.

The Rev. Mr. Ballantyne died in Pittsburgh at the end of his second term as a foreign missionary, after he and his wife and family had spent seventeen years there. The McConnells and Gordons are still laboring among the people of that country. Four of the second generation of the three families have since entered the mission field. They are one of the Gordon family, one of the McConnell, and two of the Ballantyne.

Mr. and Mrs. Findley M. Torrence and their little daughter Jean, who have been in France since last March sailed from Boulogne on the steamer Cleveland of the United American Line, and are expected to reach New York next Sunday or Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Laybourne and their family motored to New York to greet the Torrences upon their arrival and will bring them back to Xenia. The trip to France was made chiefly for the purpose of permitting Mr. Torrence to recuperate after a serious surgical operation. His health is greatly improved. The Torrences spent most of their time while abroad in Paris.

The Rev. D. Lawrence Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ferguson of the Clifton pike, began his new pastorate Sunday morning at Reed Memorial, Ind. The Rev. Mr. Ferguson recently resigned a pastorate in St. Louis, in order to accept the call to the Reed Memorial Church. Mrs. Ferguson and children are remaining for a few days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ferguson.

PROSPERITY DUE THIS FALL SAYS BANKER; ASKS FOR CO-OPERATION

A. E. FAULKNER

"Conditions are tending toward normal as rapidly as possible."

"Prospects for the farmer were never better than at present."

"By November or December we will be enjoying much better conditions."

These are some of the optimistic statements of A. E. Faulkner, cashier, Commercial and Savings Bank, who believes the clouds of depression now obscuring prosperity, will be soon rolled away.

"Money is plentiful in the manufacturing centers but in the agricultural districts money is close because the farmer has not yet had a crop. Crop conditions however, are promising, which indicates brighter prospects for the farmer. With the harvesting of bumper crops, farm conditions will improve and money will loosen. This condition should arrive this fall," said Mr. Faulkner.

"Every business is in some measure dependent upon every other business," he continued. "In every community a proper sense of personal, as of civic interest, dictates the greatest possible measure of co-operation."

"The retail establishments of Xenia compare favorably with those of much larger centers in point of stock of goods, of prices, appointments and quality of service. On any or all these grounds, they are entitled to patronage, but there are more important reasons still."

"Every Xenia resident profits by the very existence of these stores and everyone should know they cannot be the kind of stores they ought to be the kind of stores we all want them to be, unless we patronize them. We need them and we have no right to expect them to serve us acceptably unless we give them every opportunity."

"Reciprocity is an essential factor in any business relationship which is to endure. Business relationships that are founded upon friendship are seldom permanent but those friendships which grow out of business relationships have best of bases for real permanence."

"Always when you deal with your neighbors, you arrive in time at a better understanding and appreciation of them."

"The more we buy here at home, the better will we know our city and the more effective will be our effort to make Xenia truly a community in the best sense of the word."

"A bank's operations are necessarily governed by these considerations. As a depository for the funds of its community and an agent in the handling of its current financial transactions, it becomes in a very real sense, a trustee for the community in the community's dealings with itself. Satisfactory service to its patrons and resultant growth are therefore wholly dependent upon how well the institution discharges these obligations, upon the public's approval not only of its service, but also of the spirit which underlies and actuates it."

"The banker knows that the progress of his institution is necessarily conditioned upon the contribution which it is able to make to the progress and prosperity of its customers and its general public, that banking and business are inevitably interdependent, and the success of either is primarily contingent upon the cooperation of both."

A motoring party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. North, Mr. and Mrs. Bayless Thompson, Mrs. Mary Finley, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Canby, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dobbs and the former's mother, Mrs. J. W. Dobbs of New Castle, Pa., are home after spending nearly three weeks at Grand Lake, Mich., near Presque Isle. The party had a cottage at the resort, which is located in the heart of the pine woods and is an ideal spot for fishing. It is three and one-half miles from the highest light house on the chain of lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Melvin of the South Charleston Pike are announcing the birth of a daughter, Saturday evening at their home.

Announcement is made of the birth Saturday morning of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Beall of the Beall road.

Miss Mildred Prugh and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wagner and son David, are expected to arrive in Xenia the last of the week. Mrs. Prugh has been with her son-in-law and daughter in Chicago since her return from California a number of months ago.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Dice and Miss Jane Dice of Toledo are guests of Mrs. R. J. Kelly, North King Street. They will spend two weeks here.

TRAFFIC RULES FOR FAIR GOERS ISSUED

MODISH MITZI—Dora Goes Into Cretonne Fashions 100 P. Ct. By JAY V. JAY

Dora is reading a letter from Mitzi. "Everybody is wearing cretonne at the beach—do bring lots of it" she writes. Dora will obey instructions. She would discard even her newest and most becoming cape top dress—if Mitzi told her too. She knows that Mitzi knows what's what and what's not—in style.

Just the thing—cretonne purses! Such handsome ones, too, hand-blocked cretonnes. Surley the beach has yet to see these. Dora is investing in a couple. Mitzi will not find her unprepared to march in the mode of cretonne. These designs are startling, too.

And the cretonne ensemble, this hat and parasol would also delight Mitzi's eye, thinks Dora, conscientiously following cretonne fashions. These together with her cretonne coat—well Dora is nothing if not thorough. She is bound to give a 100 per cent cretonne performance.

Dora arrives with her cretonne wardrobe. Mitzi is afraid of saying too much or not enough. Poor Dora! She wants to wear all her cretonne styles at once. Mitzi is trying to tell her that enough is enough and lots of cretonne is entirely too much.

TO SLEEP IN ARLINGTON.

YEARS ago William Jennings Bryan chose Arlington National Cemetery at Washington as the place for his burial when the end of the journey had been reached. To one who knows the beauty and charm and peaceful quiet of that place the choice he made would seem most fitting. There will be national approval of the decision to carry out his plans.

On a high bluff, opposite Washington, with thousands of magnificent trees, long sloping hillsides, broad acres in the open, Arlington is a place of much natural beauty that has been heightened and emphasized by the art of man. It is a national cemetery and a national shrine, where stone and marble mark the resting places of men of noble soul who gave service to the nation. There is patriotic inspiration there and loving memories cluster thickly about it. Cared for with all the precision that marks military supervision, it is ever immaculate, where Nature seems to have fashioned a place where the heroic dead of a great nation might be gathered. Man has sought to leave the natural charm unspoiled. Whether one may view it when the peace and beauty of summer are there or when the vigor and test of winter are at hand, it is alike impressive.

For more than 30 years Mr. Bryan was in the thick of conflict and campaign in public life. He must have grown weary in body at times, very weary during recent years when bodily ailment slowly took away physical strength. There must have been times when he longed for rest, a quiet place, with cool shade and flowers, peace all about, where one might sleep, and dream and rest. And, at such times, the picture of Arlington might arise to promise that for which his heart was longing. No wonder he chose it as his place of sepulcher.

And what a place to sleep and rest! Washington lies just across the winding Potomac, the Lincoln Memorial, Washington's Monument, the dome of the Capitol, and all else that is interesting in that city, the very heart of the nation he loved with a great passion and served in so many ways. In Washington, all that marks active official life under high pressure. In Arlington, the quiet and peace at the end of the journey. He knew and had a part in busy, working Washington. He earned the peace and quiet and repose of Arlington. There he will sleep away the coming years.

HEROES.

A HERO is a person who risks his own life or safety in order to save another from danger.

He is a product of the moment and quite frequently his motivating influences are any thing but heroic. Frequently he is impelled by a blind fate that does not see danger and activates his mind and limbs and emotions, without thought of peril.

Most everyone has the "stuff" of which heroes are made, yet only a few ever get the full of stories of deeds of heroism, which probably indicates that more people rise to the emergency, annually as the hazards themselves increase.

It is a form of second nature that actuates the impulse even while fear is gripping the heart. Yet only the most callous or the most spineless, as the case may be, can resist, under fear for their own safety, the impulse that sets fly a heroic deed.

Thus heroes are made in times of duress, and peril is the producer. Into their hands each year are thrust the lives of many to whom life is sweet and who owe it all to the impulse that shuts out of sight the mask of peril and produces quick-thinking, cool-headed action so that heroes may rise.

COMPENSATION.

THE laborer who applied for workmen's compensation because he shot himself in the hand while firing a pistol with the intention of starting a balky pair of mules, doesn't need compensation—he needs a guardian.

The story is that the laborer, having exhausted all the known means of getting the refractory animals to move, had conceived the brilliant idea of startling them out of their lethargy with a pistol shot.

The workman was going to use only the report from the gun for his purpose, considering that the cartridge itself might produce an even greater ennu, if used directly on the animal. Unfortunately the story does not continue to say whether the mules moved after the shot. It indicates, however, that the careless workman moved—having shot himself through the hand. He was denied compensation.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

I'm just a little girl, and so,
Everybody says: "No, no!"
Just a little girl that sees
Fun in chasing birds and bees,
Running after music men,
But if I get started, then
Nurse or mother says: "No, no,
No, no! Janet, mustn't go!"
Life is all so strange and new,
There's so much I want to do,
But it seems whatever I
Think I'd like to do or try
Some one comes right after me,

Just as fast as fast can be,
Catches me and tells me: "No,
Little Janet mustn't go!"

I'm just a little girl, and oh,
There's so much I want to know,
Want to do, but all the day
"No" is all that people say.
Never once they say to me:
"Yes," so see what you can see!
Go alone and race and run,
Climb the trees and have some fun.
"You'll get hurt," is all they say,
And if you should run away
"You'll get lost!" Oh dear, oh dear!
There's so very much to fear
I can see no fun at all
Being young and being small.
If God's taking care of us
Can life be so dangerous?

THE "FOUR REDS" FRUIT PASTE

Paris—For the "four reds" fruit paste, choose four red gooseberries and red raspberries.

Clean each kind of fruit separately and weigh the same amount of sugar. Cook altogether, first slowly, stirring often, and then put over a hotter fire and cook until it is reduced two-thirds. Add the same weight of powdered sugar and continue the cooking until it boils.

Four into small molds and let cool. The paste may be served alone or with thick cream.

CONTACTS

I have noted among very successful business men that they all seem to place great importance upon contacts.

It's like living upon a well balanced diet.

"Man cannot live upon bread alone." Neither can he live by corraling to himself a selected number of interests and making them his own. That always marks the narrow man.

The active and growing brain must have contacts in ideas, now scenes, different books, and a host of friends and acquaintances.

As with the man who is a mechanic, he never knows just what particular tool he is to need for his next job. And so it is with us all, we never know when some valuable contact we have made is going to come as a life saver, special inspiration, or asset.

It is self-evident that a man may know too little, but it has been demonstrated over and over again that a man cannot know too much.

And it isn't the business man alone who has learned the great value to be acquired through contacts. The writer and thinker knows that no must make new contacts all the time. And he who has experienced the futility of few friendships knows it too.

Growth is a privilege, but it is a duty as well.

Contacts stimulate and nourish all growth. I know a man who serves great corporations by furthering their ideas among distinctly different concerns. He gets out a little magazine each month or so to do this—and he calls the magazine "Contact."

The flabby men and women of this world are those who have no contact with their fellows. Or with the vital interests of this life.

Resinol cleared away
pimples in a week

Lexington, Mass., March 5:—"I had been suffering from shaving pimples on my neck for years and, I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Resinol Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this cure! You can be sure that henceforth you have more loyal booster for your product." (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 8 Bloomfield St.

CHILD IN SERIOUS STATE AT HOSPITAL

Condition of Phyllis Scott, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Scott South Columbus Street, in Espee Hospital in a critical condition as the result of serious injuries received when she was struck by an automobile Saturday afternoon, remained unchanged Monday.

The girl is still in an unconscious condition and physicians were unable to say whether she will live. She is suffering from skull fractures at the top and base of her brain.

The accident occurred in front of the Carnegie Library when the child darted across the street to an ice wagon for a piece of ice and was struck by an auto driven by James Pace, colored, East Market Street. The driver saw the child too late to turn aside. Pace is not being held as the accident was believed to be unavoidable.

HEAVY SWATTER

Hendrysburg, Aug. 3.—Babe Ruth may be the King of Swat but Third Baseman Stricker of Barnesville is running him a close second. In a recent game with New Philadelphia, Stricker swung his bat so hard that the stick, after striking the ball, continued its course, striking Stricker so hard on the back of his head that he was rendered senseless for a moment, and being broken by the blow. Stricker, however, recovered sufficiently to see the ball had shot between third and short and managed to reach first safely.

Health Hints

by the Father of Physical Culture

BEKNARD MCKADDEN

Brine-bath cookery is something entirely new in cooking methods. It was worked out by Mr. Hastings of the Physical Culture Food Laboratory. He was testing the temperatures in a double boiler when it occurred to him that the full boiling temperature could be secured in a double boiler, which would still have the advantage of not sticking or burning and that such a device would have many advantages. Knowing that salt raised the boiling temperature of water, he picked up a sack of salt and dumped it into the lower pot of the double boiler. Not all the salt dissolved but some remained in the bottom of the pot maintaining a solution of fully saturated brine. He now let this come to a boil and tried it with his chemical thermometer. He found that the brine had reached a temperature of fifteen degrees above the boiling point of water. He put the upper pot back, and the water in it now began to boil slowly.

The advantages of this method are at once apparent. Anything which is commonly cooked in a double boiler can be cooked in the brine bath boiler more quickly as the temperature is about fifteen degrees higher. Also anything that is commonly cooked by boiling in an ordinary pot can be cooked in this clever device for it actually boils. Even if the water boils out of the food it does not burn.

The method is particularly advantageous for cooking greens and tender vegetables in their own vapor. No equipment is required but a large double boiler. Unfortunately most of the double boilers in the market are small, and you may have trouble getting one with a large enough inner pot to hold all the things you will find it convenient to cook by this method. The upper pot should set well into the lower one as it must come in contact with the brine, and not merely the steam above the brine, as that is no hotter than ordinary steam. The salt can be used over and over.

BUILDINGS PLANNED TO WITHSTAND QUAKE SHOCKS ARE STUDIED

WASHINGTON, AUG. 3.—Co-operating with the Carnegie Institution, the United States Government has launched a study of the construction of earthquake proof buildings.

The Government's part in the inquiry will consist chiefly of furnishing information to the Carnegie Institution relative to the earthquake zones, the prevalence of tremors and the probable times of disturbances.

"It has been established beyond argument that special methods of construction greatly reduce the loss of life and property during earthquakes," Colonel E. L. Jones, of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, said.

Jones explained the necessity for a general earthquake investigator by saying that it is just as important to know of the probable time and place of future earthquakes as to post storm warnings.

PREPARE FOR TYPHOONS. "But let us apply this argument to the hurricane or the typhoon, which are often as destructive as great earthquakes. No one will deny that it is of great value to know the nature of these great storms and when they are coming, as ships can get away from them and certain precautions can be taken on land."

"For similar reasons it is important to know where and approximately, when earthquakes are likely to occur."

"In many reports of earthquakes we read the statement that the quake would not have done much damage if the building had not been of such indifferent construction; and again if in the construction of the building the character of the geological formation had been taken into account, the damage would not have proved serious."

Jones pointed out that the development of the modern city has followed lines which pre-suppose the stability of the earth. In most cases this course is justified, but when a great city is built in a region of major earthquakes it is found that some of the most valued features of city life may introduce sources of special danger when earthquakes occur, he said.

CONGESTION DANGEROUS.

Among these features, it was stated, is the congestion of immense buildings containing large numbers of people whose safety from fire depends upon the continuous flow of water in the mains. The San Francisco disaster was cited as an illustration of what happens when water mains are broken by an earthquake.

"The fire hazard is greatly increased by modern heating and lighting methods, especially in American cities, with their many frame buildings," Jones continued. "A severe earthquake may upset stoves or furnaces and break gas mains and electric light wires."

"An additional hazard is the gas-line supply at service stations and, possibly, even the parked automobiles which block the streets."

The Coast Survey probe will be completed by the scattering of a large number of seismographs throughout the United States in the areas most likely to be disturbed by earthquakes. Following the compiling of statistics the earthquake zones will be designated.

With this information at hand, architects acting under the jurisdiction of the Carnegie Institution will fix standards for earthquake buildings which will be recommended semi-officially to the various cities of the earthquake zones.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

MRS. HANNAH FULTON, WIDOW OF CAPTAIN FULTON, IS CALLED

Mrs. Hannah Graham Fulton, widow of Captain N. A. Fulton, former postmaster of Xenia and former superintendent of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home, died at 11 o'clock Saturday night at the Jenny Lind Home, London, where she had been a patient for the last two months. She had been in failing health for several years.

Mrs. Fulton was born in 1843 in Highland County, O., and was married there to Mr. Fulton in 1863. One son born to them died in infancy.

Captain Fulton was a veteran of the Civil War, and shortly after being mustered out at the close of that conflict he and his wife moved to Cincinnati where he was engaged in a wholesale dry goods house for twelve years. The Fultons moved to Xenia in 1876, and for thirteen years Mr. Fulton was a merchant here in the men's clothing and furnishings business. He was appointed postmaster of Xenia September 6, 1889, and sold his store to George A. Thompson. Upon his retirement from the office of postmaster he engaged in the real estate and loan business, continuing in this work until February, 1898, when he was appointed superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home. He served until 1900 when he resigned and re-engaged in his former business, real estate and loans. He continued in that capacity until his death about eight years ago. He was for years prominent in Republican politics and was for five years chairman of the Republican executive committee of Greene County.

Mrs. Fulton and her husband were both prominent members of the First Methodist Episcopal Church for many years. ## RECKLESS DRIVERS ARE BEING CURBED OVER PARIS STREETS

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The Paris chauffeur is no longer king of the road he rides over.

In view of the increasing number of accidents, very many of them serious ones, Prefect of Police Morain has just announced that new measures are to be taken against careless and reckless drivers. About one person killed and twenty injured is now the average daily toll of Parisian street accidents. A new speed limit of forty kilometers, (about twenty-five miles), an hour is to be established in all districts of the Seine Department, and it is to be hoped this will be the means of avoiding many catastrophes.

In addition to this, whenever a policeman thinks a driver is going at an excessive rate that may endanger life, the offending chauffeur will be stopped and warned. A verbal warning will be followed by a written one and, if need be, the license will be revoked. If after these two warnings the driver is again cautioned by a policeman, he will be brought up before the Traffic Department of the prefecture and incur heavy fines.

CALCULATE SPEED

Several squads of policemen will be specially detailed to prevent all infractions of the law, particularly during the hours when traffic is light and chauffeurs are inclined to drive at full speed. The officers will be equipped with a taximeter to calculate the speed.

During the first tryouts of the enforcement of the new speed limit more than fifteen arrests were made in the First Ward in one evening. All of the chauffeurs were stopped for not slowing down at street crossings, where the majority of the accidents occur.

WOMAN CONVICT, IN JAIL 20 YEARS NOW WITH FATHER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—Somewhere in Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. Rae Krauss, forty-six nestled today in the hungry embrace of her aged and infirm father, F. W. Anderman, after an enforced separation of more than twenty years.

She was granted an unconditional pardon by Governor Ed Jackson, after spending nearly half of her life behind stark prison walls in expiation of a crime that aroused tremendous interest throughout the country a score of years ago.

It was back in 1904 that Mrs. Krauss, then a comely young woman of twenty-five, rocked the quiet town of Hartford City, Ind., and came into nation-wide prominence by confessing that she poisoned her beautiful eighteen-year-old stepdaughter, Crystal Krauss.

JEALOUS OF GIRL

"Jealousy caused me to do it," she explained. "I was jealous of the attentions given her by her father—my husband. And I was afraid Crystal would order me out of the house we lived in—she would have inherited the home when she became of age."

Mrs. Krauss was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. She became lost in the prison shuffle, and for two decades was known by a number, spending the best years of her life in the narrow confines of the Indiana woman's prison.

APPEAL GRANTED

Suddenly announcement was made that Mrs. Krauss was unconditionally pardoned by the Governor on the appeal of the trustees of the woman's prison.

"She has been an ideal prisoner," they pleaded with the Executive. "Her father needs her. She has been punished sufficiently."

And the Governor heeded, opening with one swift stroke of his pen, the doors of freedom once more to the repentant woman that she might care for her invalid father in Buffalo in the twilight of his life.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER 112.

As she sat musing before the telephone instrument, she was reminded of important calls. In negotiations with Manning. And what Mrs. Manning would say about her to the president.

"But can't you say yes or no?" "I can't talk about it over the telephone," Michael answered her.

"Yes." "Goodbye, dear. I'm so glad." He was going to sell out! She was thrilled by the news. She wondered if he had already begun talking to the parties it was with difficulty that she refrained from telling the news.

The fact that she was responsible for dinner slipped her pre-occupied mind till a half an hour before Michael's customary arrival. He consequently found her in the kitchen.

"You have lots to tell me, haven't you?" she exclaimed eagerly. "Yes, lots and lots." How is Sally? I must go in and see her.

She was annoyed because he felt her then, his news unrevealed. "Is the Manning dinner still on?" she asked, when he returned.

"For the present. I had to laugh when you told me about it over the telephone. I had just been in to see Manning, and I left him, I am afraid, as mad as a hornet."

"Then you told him?"

"Not exactly. I went in on other business, expecting him to mention this other matter. He did. I remarked that all the talk had caused me to think of selling him my stock. I asked him to make me an offer. He was peevish by the announcement, and is sure now, I know, that I have been deceiving him all along. I feel rather childish about it now. I wish I hadn't begun the deception. I'm supposed to be a business man, but I've been acting like a baby."

"Why, dear, I don't think you have." She felt that this criticism of herself affected her equally.

"I—Oh, there's no use talking about it."

She patted him on the shoulder reassuringly.

"I know that you will do the right thing."

He smiled down at her. This was the kind of a wife to have! He was impelled to kiss her.

"I have news for you, too. Helen Hunley and Lonnie are coming over tomorrow evening."

"Did you explain to them?"

"Not over the telephone, silly."

He frowned.

"I don't think Lonnie will be sore, but how about Helen. Aren't you afraid she'll resent our interference? She'll think we're just satisfying our curiosity."

"I don't think so. I believe she suspects what is afoot. She knows that you are Lonnie's closest friend."

"Well, let's hope that we don't make matters any worse."

A new mood captured Michael as he thought of Helen Hunley. He had liked her in "the old days," as he referred to his bachelorhood, and once he had fancied himself in love with her.

"I wonder who the other man is."

"I'd like to know, too. We ought to have him come, too," she laughed. "Helen isn't very constant, you know, and has always had several men on her string, you might say. I'm afraid she was always a little prone to play with fire, too."

As the next afternoon wore on Lillah became more and more excited over the drama she had arranged. "I'm the stage manager," she thought, "and they are the actors. Now what shall I have them do?"

What would happen? What would Helen say? Would she resent their attempt to help? Lillah couldn't imagine.

HOBBIES OF THE GREAT AND NEAR GREAT AS TOLD BY NEWS WRITER

Editor's Note—This is the thirteenth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR CHARLES CURTIS

Restaurateur, theatrical critic and champion pedestrian—these are the titles bestowed upon Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, Republican whip of the Senate in the hobby investigation of official life.

Managing the Senate restaurant, with its service of some 150,000 meals a year, is probably the Senator's greatest hobby. At least, the Republican leader looks with greater pride upon his feat in slashing $30,000 from the restaurant's operating cost last year than even his legislative victory in getting the Senate to sustain President Coolidge's veto of the popular postal pay bill.

In operating the restaurant, Curtis has put more practical economy into effect than any other institution in the Government service. Serving meals at cost, the restaurant has been operated at a net loss for many years, the annual balance frequently showing $100,000 on the red side of the ledger. When Curtis took charge a year ago he immediately inaugurated a strict system of economy, such as was advocated by the President.

SAVES $30,000
The economy drive reduced overhead expenses, saved $30,000 for the Government and almost brought the restaurant in to the "paying class." It will be there, next year, says Curtis, when the economies will be fully felt. All this the Kansas Senator has done in his spare moments and entirely aside from his numerous legislative duties as Republican whip of the Senate. It is his pet hobby, he explains.

The Senator's theatrical experiences are confined principally to films and plays dealing with the Old West. This is due chiefly to the Indian strain given him by his forbears and the fact his boyhood was spent on the plains of Kansas, where he watched "westward ho" bands of pioneers struggling toward the land of the setting sun.

The Senator's recreation is walking. He can be found night after night strolling in the neighborhood of his home. His friends say he walks two miles every night for a constitutional. Newspapermen not infrequently waylay the Senator on his walks to interview him about legislation. To get an interview, the reporter must fall into step, and it's a real feat to talk and walk with Curtis. The Senator really has no favorite sport. He used to be a baseball fan, but of late he doesn't attend the games, even though Washington won a world's championship.

"I used to go regularly, and then

I got late to meals so often, Mrs. Curtis made me stop," he said.

TOO YOUNG FOR GOLF

The Senator does not golf either. "I'm not old enough to golf," is the way he explains it.

The radio, however, has captured his fancy. He maintains one of the largest radio sets in Washington, and his friends call him a "radio bug."

Curtis also spends many hours in reading. His knowledge of Senatorial procedure and legislative rules is second to that of no other man in the nation. At his fingertips are precedents by the score to bear out the construction he will place upon a rule. It is the use of precedents, so far as the Senate is concerned, that really makes the rules what they are today.

Next—Senator James Couzens.

DUCKLING WITH TURNIPS

Paris—Young duck is at its best with turnips, according to the French housewife.

First stew the duck giblets, with carrots and leeks, to make about half a pint of strong broth. Strain and set aside.

Fry the duckling in butter and add onions, salt and pepper, and let stew slowly for an hour.

In the meantime clean and peel turnips, wipe well, but do not wash. Steam in butter for half an hour and sprinkle lightly with sugar.

Mix a little butter with flour, then add the broth and simmer the duckling over a slow fire for about fifteen minutes. Skim off the fat. Set the duckling upon a hot dish and surround with turnips. Pour the sauce over all and serve at once.
